

Next Generation Aggregation for the Next Generation of Business

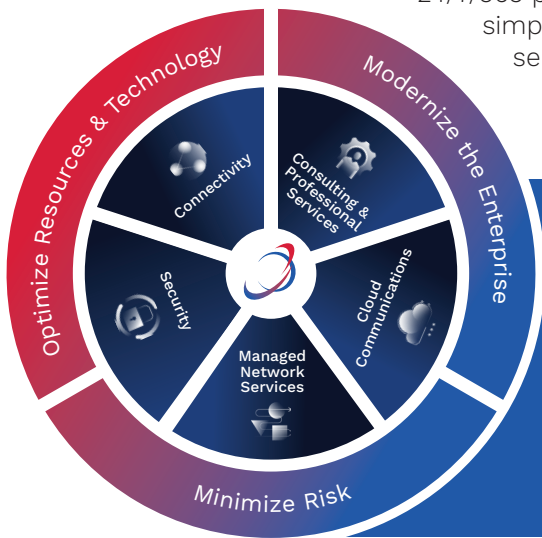

| Company Overview

Our Expertise is Next-Generation Solutions. Our Mission is Human-Crafted Technology.

Spectrotel goes beyond the simplicity of a single source/single invoice. As a true next generation aggregator, we select from a variety of network and technology providers to design and build customized end-to-end solutions for business moments that matter the most.

Customers choose Spectrotel because we provide unparalleled choice, unrivaled expertise, and exceptional service.

Gain the advantage of an experienced single-source partner aggregating more than 300 North American carriers and technology providers with US-based support, and a single contact for billing, ticketing, project management and 24/7/365 proactive network monitoring. Our agnostic technology approach makes it simple to create seamless, reliable, and scalable solutions with the advanced services and resources you need to increase productivity, ensure consistency, optimize your resources, and ensure future proofing as you prepare for your digital transformation.

We consult, design, implement, and manage comprehensive solutions to help you minimize risk, optimize resources, and modernize your enterprise. We are fanatical about offering customers both freedom and flexibility through a full suite of engineered solutions that include cloud communications, connectivity, managed services, security, and professional services.

At Spectrotel, we understand the real power behind the technology is people.

The most advanced technology is nothing without the expertise to understand it and the support to see it through. That's why we are committed to keeping the human touch behind all our technology solutions. We're here to listen, problem solve, support, and manage every step of the way. No stress, no guesswork, no hassle.
